

FIERCE Advisory Panel Charter

Background

The San Francisco Elections Commission (SFEC) has been engaged in a Redistricting Initiative project to upgrade its local redistricting processes to current best practices since June 2022. It would like to refer a final set of reform recommendations to the Board of Supervisors to amend the Charter in 2024. In order to meet the tight timeline for a ballot measure, the Commission would like to leverage the assistance of good government groups to advise it on how to customize best practice recommendations for San Francisco. This is the genesis of the Fair, Independent, and Effective Redistricting for Community Engagement (FIERCE) Advisory Panel.

Membership

In addition to Redistricting Initiative leads Commissioners Cynthia Dai and Renita LiVolsi, the following individuals have volunteered to lend their expertise to the FIERCE Advisory Panel:

Mission/Scope

To analyze and recommend acceptable options to the SFEC on how to improve San Francisco's redistricting processes based on best practices. This includes assessing the potential impact of pending state legislation which may serve as models to emulate or simply abide by.

Transparency

As a passive policy body under San Francisco's Sunshine Ordinance, the FIERCE Advisory Panel will hold its meetings at City Hall or other publicly accessible locations and provide advance notice by posting scheduled meetings on the SFEC website. Discussions and recommendations will also be summarized at SFEC meetings.

Governance

As a purely advisory body, the FIERCE Advisory Panel will provide its recommendations, pros and cons, and other insights after discussion to inform decisions by SFEC.

Timeline

The FIERCE Advisory Panel has tentatively scheduled its first official meeting for May 24 at 7pm, with additional meetings planned in June as needed prior to SFEC's June meeting. At that meeting, preliminary recommendations will be presented for SFEC's consideration and vote. If additional recommendations or feedback require more discussion by FIERCE, it will schedule more meetings as needed in time for SFEC's July meeting. This should give the Commission time to consider any final recommendations and vote on the package of reforms for the City Attorney's office to review in August, allowing referral to the Board of Supervisors by September.
